We had the occasion of engaging the lovely Ms Lebogang Sibande and, as a vivacious young black female entrepreneur, she strikes a cutting figure with her passion and dedication to not just her business but the belief in empowering other like-minded young women interested in getting into the industry.

Lebogang's vision is to begin a training school for future beauticians who can start their own version of "Mini Me", which we found was a clever and inspired play on words as well as limitless franchise opportunities.

Ms Sibande indicated that the North West Covid-19 Relief Fund pay-out she received was definitely, "appreciated and something better than nothing" during a time when her business was rendered to its knees with staff costs and rent.

She further added that "it will be some time before business returns to the volumes of previously but education and marketing are key in re-attracting and building the business again."

The passionate and energetic Lebogang Sibande, owner of Minnie Me Kids Salon.
